In Memoriam

Men are remembered for what they do. It is with pleasure that we recall Dr. Hunt's career as a leader of Humanity

DR. GEORGE EDWIN HUNT, M.D., D.D.S.

Foreword

It is with a feeling of satisfaction that the staff of the 1916 Ident completes its labors and submits the finished product to its readers. May it be worthy of our efforts. We have endeavored to deal with matters in a just and unprejudiced manner, and with malice and injustice toward none. May this book serve the purpose for which it is intended,—a retrospect of our three years at the Indiana Dental College.

Senior Class History 1916

TIME has at last brought the end of our college career into sight. We are thinking and planning hopefully for the future. Another milestone by; the Senior class of 1916 awaits Commencement. A lump that is hard to swallow rises in every Dent's throat as we realize that we are about to bid school days and class mates a last farewell. We are taking an important step and one to which each one of us has long looked forward. We are anxious to get started in our life-work; yet we hesitate now, for an instant, recalling the years of preparation and dreaming of the future. What success we may gain we shall deserve. Each man has the power to mold his own career, and one unworthy cannot succeed.

We came to the Indiana Dental College as Freshmen in 1913. We at once gained recognition by winning the class rush. This long established custom passed into history that year, as the college faculty thought it dangerous to the welfare of every individual. We are also proud of the fact that as Freshmen, we were probably the most influential in establishing athletics into the college. We are elevated by the fact that our class has set a high standard of scholarship. How often haven't we heard statements like these, "This is an extra good Senior Class," or "But this senior class is an exception, just look at those averages."

Much that was unlooked for has happened since we entered the Dental College. To our grief and sorrow, in the summer of 1914, we laid to rest our beloved Dean, Dr. Geo. Edwin Hunt, a friend of every one. We were the last Freshmen in the old college building and the first in the new one. Also we are the second class in history to put out a college annual. Some of the class have left us, but the great majority are one happy unit. There are some, perhaps, who wish they might live over these three years, regretting time wasted and play hours that "might have been" made study hours. But there is none who does not cherish, withal tender memories and gratitude towards those who have helped him in his work.

Every incident in our college life will serve a purpose. Many of us have faced difficulties and endured hardships, and in spite of that fact were often financially embarrassed. We are better men for having had to overcome obstacles, knowing that opposition often stimulates us to maintain a higher standard. We have learned the value of time and have learned to stand upon our own feet. Thus the degree of success we shall attain will be determined a great deal by the facts and principles we have unconsciously absorbed.

Now we still have duties commanding us. We must add something of value to the life of the community we enter. We must devote our knowledge and skill to unselfish and tireless efforts on behalf of those who seek our aid. Finally we must remember the responsibility of our profession and maintain high respect for it, ever striving to advance the interest of Dentistry.

O. C. STOELTING,
Class Historian.

Class Prophecy

L. K. ANDERSON. We shall wait in suspense to see what Andy does in Providence.

WM. ARMANTROUT. When we are all through, Bill will be a first class dentist in Peru.

ERMAL C. BAKER. He has developed his ambidexterity to such an extent that he is now able to use two hand pieces in the mouth at the same time. He thinks by this feat, he will be able to meet all of his Herriott bills with ease.

KURT R. BELL. A wise man will hear and will increase his learning. The Doctor has recently invented an apparatus which will do the entire mechanical part of dentistry. The machine works automatically, it has to.

RALEIGH F. BENHAM. After graduation Dr. Benham decided that he could as well win fame and honor in a large city as in a hamlet. The Doctor is now authority on how to put cusps on a tooth without having fissures and grooves between them; and how to extract teeth without leaving the socket in the jaw bone.

R. W. BONNETT. From "Shakopee Daily" (Minn.), Dr. Bonnett has taken up a claim near this village and is doing a land office business, having preferred this to tooth carpentering on the natives.

J. W. BOYS. This man is now spending his entire time with Dr. Shimer making a pathological study of the cementum organ. It is said that the Doctor, through his extensive and continuous study, developed a case of shaking palsy.

ARTHUR R. BRADY. Dr. Arthur, although situated in a noisy business section, will always conduct in his quiet way his charity practice probably beginning with a Supplee full upper and lower for Carnegie, and a fourteen-tooth bridge for Rockefeller.

W. S. BRAY. A good man leaveth an inheritance to his children's children; yea, but wisdom is better than gold says the Doctor. He has never as yet practiced any dentistry. He has taken all post graduate courses offered by all dental colleges and is now taking private instruction under such men as Dr. Kennedy. His dental friends are getting anxious to see the results when such a man as he is launched into the field of experience.

A. W. BROADSTREET. Upon graduation the Doctor took up an active practice in a near-by college town. This, however, soon became a little speedy for him as he longed for the azure sky and the fresh ozone. He is now located on "that South Forty" and only last week invited all his former colleagues and henchmates to a "Pumkin Huskin' Bee."

J. R. BROWN. Of the future of Brown it is very hard to tell, but we think he'll be preaching the gospel to fare-you-well.

WM. C. CARPER, JR. At Carper's feet we think will be
A harem in India, across the sea.

CYRIL S. CARR. We are informed that the Doctor's success finally came after a persistent and well directed effort, although not in the dental profession. He is now conducting a girls' seminary across the street from the I. D. C. with unusual success.

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

CECIL F. CARTER. Is still interested in the art of wearing glad rags that please the gentle sex. He expects soon to restrict his practice to unmarried ladies between the ages of 16 and 30 of near blond complexion.

HAZIN L. COLWELL. A gentleman quiet and punctual, and in the first city of the state nothing will be too good, either in dental associations or in his private practice. Always gaining enthusiasm at the explosion of a motor, we feel certain that the Ritter engine will fill a neglected vacancy until the Stutz takes its place.

D. C. DALBEY. For Dalbey, the man of many questions in a far off country making suggestions.

WM. A. CARSON. The last heard of the Doctor, he had launched a vessel sailing the sea of financial prosperity which, without doubt, has been torpedoed, for there have recently been S. O. S. signals from his instrumentarium.

LOUIS M. DAUM. Office hours, 1:00 a. m. to 12:55 p. m. The Doctor's leisure moments are spent eating, sleeping, joy-riding, reading Shakespeare and the Bible, hunting, fishing, attending clubs and dances, strolls through the park, swimming, foot racing, etc.

VIRGIL M. DEDOIS. Has recently been chosen Dean of Indianapolis School of Dentistry, and he has demonstrated his ability to discipline and do the thing. He says his foremost idea is to rid the school of the lame ducks who are not able to do the thing.

J. M. DOBBS. After quittance the Doctor located at Danville, Ind. The supposition is that he was sacrificed to Venus, for it was reported at Ferner's that he was seen headed for Terre Haute where a few days later a new and first class "pocket billiard parlor" appeared under the name of Dobbs-Hanning & Company.

C. E. DONNELL. In the future, Cliff Donnell, we think, will be manager of a skating rink.

CHESTER A. DOUD. Became disgusted at his skill of artificial reproduction of the natural teeth and their contiguous parts and locked his office. He is now building silos for the Germans. The Kaiser thinks he will win the war with these. His friends are anxiously awaiting his return to his office.

H. H. ELSLAGER. Ashkum, Illinois.—Dr. Elslager, president of the "Farmers' Bank" here, has recently bought another 110-acre tract for the cultivation of pulps for artificial teeth.

CHAS. S. FOSTER. A conscientious workman and ideals high; we have good reasons to believe that he will reach them. He always looks for the new and the best things in dentistry and right now we do not doubt that he will support the idea of a trained nurse as an assistant.

R. D. GARRISON. The Doctor has discovered a micro-organism which prevents all dental caries. This production has put thousands of dentists out of employment and has given to dentistry a very limited field. The entire profession looks upon the Doctor with a jealous eye and an empty pocket.

CLIFFORD B. GILBERT. Spends from 3 to 5 p. m. at his office, nights are taken up entirely with extensive research work.

EARL S. GILCHRIST. Earl is a man who is never satisfied with what is just done. He wants to do something bigger so we place his mark high, even to the place where Dr. Lucas will have to go out of business not altogether on account of the scarcity of novocain.

F. A. HANNING. Owing to the corrupt politics in Terre Haute, Fred quit his strenuous dental duties and entered politics. It is reported that he is following in the footsteps of his famous predecessor, Don Roberts. His friends are hoping that he will not take the last step that Don took; no chance, Fred would talk Uncle Sam out of it.

PERKINS F. HINSON. Three years in a dental college just gave the Doctor a wonderful inspiration to know more of the human anatomy, so he has made an extended study of the subject by taking a course in medicine, and is now doing a great work to get the two professions to understand the relationship between them.

TROSSEAU P. HECK. Our captain Heck will look mighty fine as conductor on the Fairmount street car line.

O. KEMP JOHNSON. Train caller at the Union Station, Indianapolis, Ind. When approached on the subject of dentistry, insisted the train for Harrodsburg was on track 9 and left in 15 minutes.

HARRY G. JONES. Has already proven his worth as a workman in more times than one, and we know that success alone awaits his start, even if he is not guided by his own influence alone.

HARRY R. JONES. Co-mate of Dr. W. H. Shaffer, spends most of his time counting the money that the firm Shaffer & Jones make; the rest of the time we see him attending matinees and reading yellow back novels. We see him at the railroad crossing twice a week, each time the Laporte limited train goes through.

VICTOR JORDON. Who was president of the graduating class of 1916, and one of the instigators and perpetrators of this volume, is owner and manager of "Sign of the Golden Molar" at Evansville, Ind. It is rumored that his surplus earnings are invested in a chain of Nickelodians in surrounding towns. He also carries a side line of Betz & Co.'s dental supplies.

CARL H. KAYSER. Like other poor unfortunates of the class of 1916 he did not have money enough to leave Indianapolis after graduating. But Dame Fortune was on to her job, Carl has made money so fast that he gives all the freshmen regular employment each year counting it. Carl still carries his Star route, as he says he needs the morning air and exercise, also making him enough money to pay his office girl. He has recently adopted the plan of the street car company and now conducts a "pay-as-you-enter" office.

M. H. KING. In 1920 the Doctor gave up the active practice of Dentistry. When interrogated on this decisive move, he intimated that it took too much of his time away from Tippecanoe where he is now running a summer hotel, catering to the fairer sex, possessing hair of the sunset hue and fair maidens from Jerusalem. It is also rumored that he has gone in for auto racing, as he was seen purchasing a speed demon from the Saxon agent.

EARL KINZIE. Having broken his "specs" during the discharge of his duties, bad luck has pursued him relentlessly ever since. Having located in the village of Bippus, in a well equipped office over the blacksmith shop, he had hardly amassed sufficient surplus cash to replace the above mentioned "specs" when his wife presented the disappointed Doctor with twin girls.

EDW. C. KOHLMAN. Has proven that Minnesota can produce a scientist in the art of extracting teeth as well as dollars. As yet they both come hard.

JULIA A. KOLIN. At Chicago our dear little classmate is making rapid strides to become the leading lady dental surgeon of the state. All that she requires to be famous is to get the technic of submucous anesthesia.

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

EDW. G. LENHOFF. After an absence of three years we now find Corporal Lenhoff back in the army, equipped with weapons of dentistry instead of war. Says Edgar, "It is easier to use a Gilmore attachment than any field artillery."

J. R. LEVERON. Me thinks I see Leveron, the basketball star, smiling and editing the Freelandville Star.

H. A. LILJA. The Doctor is making an extended tour of the country in an effort to collect some of his outstanding accounts. He is traveling afoot for his health. But some are mean enough to insinuate that he could not get credit for a postage stamp at the postoffice or he would have mailed his bills.

C. B. LUDWIG. Is now employed as Jordan's laboratory man. It is said that he has developed a new method of repairing bridges, and any other soldered appliances. This method consists of plugging the defects with amalgam and putting on a high polish. Still being vocally inclined he makes a little pin money singing solos in one of Jordan's jitney shows of evenings.

E. T. MCABOY. A man that can pass the state board at the end of his junior year and get his license is one among few and we recommended him very highly to his state not only for the practice of modern scientific dentistry but for the progress of the science itself.

R. J. McELWEE. After graduation the Doctor engaged in active practice for five years in a northern city. But as his novocain technique was not perfect he was unable to eke out a miserable existence for self, wife and children. However, being a true son of Erin he did not give up and is now associated with the C. & O. Railroad in his former capacity as night agent and chief bouncer.

WILLIAM C. McGRATH. In an exclusive eastern city modern dental surgery will be presented to the public in that modest professional way that not only brings the practice that counts but gives him a position in his professional association.

O. E. MCCREADY. Our own dear Mac, we think we see you driving a hack.

LUCIAN B. MERIWEATHER. Has opened a palatial suite of dental parlors on Indiana avenue, Indianapolis, Ind. He intends to confine his practice to the 400 of the colored aristocracy and getting their money. There is a rumor afloat on the avenue that strange sounds are emitted from his laboratory at night. Some insist that he is in debate with his colleagues on dental subjects, and that the sounds are scientific dental words and phrases; others contend that he is committing to memory his day's earnings.

C. L. MILLER. The Doctor says that he makes more money than he would get as a Hoosier schoolmaster, for be it known that every one pays the Doctor. They say it would be a crime to keep the money. He has invested this surplus in a Ford. Poor old Ford!

W. C. MILLER. Alias "Big Chief Noise." After following his huge spectacles through the portals of our noble halls of training out into the cruel, cold world, the Doctor made an unsuccessful attempt to establish a dental dispensary for "aged and infirm bullfrogs." He is now located at Lapeedoodle, Ind., where he is practicing his chosen profession along with being justice of the peace, city police and fire department and auctioneer for the surrounding rural districts.

L. J. MORAN. Dr. Hurty's ideal for flower pots on the street and for office hygienics won't be in it when across the street there is a conservative little shingle hanging as a beckoning light for service to the public.

THE SIXTEEN IDENT

E. H. MOSS. In time to come, in our Zez Moss, we see Flora's political boss.

S. L. MOUSER. The Doctor was found in an unconscious state in his laboratory lately, supposed to have been brought on from an overdose of hair tonic, which, according to directions, was guaranteed to grow hair on wood. Upon being revived, the Doctor mounted his bicycle and started on his Star route, as he only practiced dentistry as a side line.

J. HARROLD NAUS. Former traction magnate and feed king; upon graduation took up the general practice of dentistry in the capital of Grant County, Indiana. However, owing to the fact that the Doctor presented a much better aspect from a side view, rather than front or back, he was forced into seclusion some four years later and the last word heard from him was to the effect that he was doing extensive research work and was about to submit to the profession definite tables on "how to plug gold a roll a minute."

VAN W. PILMORE. Dean emiritus of Ann Arbor Dental Department, is now conducting a school training girls to be assistants in dental offices. The Doctor is highly recommended as an instructor among the female of the species.

J. WILL PRALL, JR. Former soap salesman, militiaman and stage manager, now a dentist, is enjoying a fine and lucrative practice in a southern city. Being a commercial man as well as professional, he has recently placed upon the market a "home dental outfit" at 48 cents, with full and complete instructions for mending your own teeth at home.

J. C. RAGSDALE. Now an able-bodied practitioner from Franklin, Ind. He will surely be a success unless he loses some of the speed which he developed in the last year.

STELLA RISSE. The first thing that you will want to know about Stella is—is she married? She is not. Stella says that she wouldn't marry the best man in the world. She couldn't, for he is already married; besides, she says she has all she can do to support herself. Her specialty is oral prophylaxis. Stella spends her vacation of six months each and twice a year in her monastery in Brown County.

WILLIAM S. SALMON. Not now as a student, but as a member of the faculty of the I. D. C., is beloved by all the members for his novel idea of getting all students to be at roll call instead of being from five to fifteen minutes late. This plan consists of deducting $1 from tuition for each roll call answered by said student.

WILLIAM H. SCHAFER. Doctors Schaffer & Jones, specialists in all the latest strong-arm methods, stayed together because they were afraid to be separated; but together they are impregnable. It is expected they will make a hit with the populace of Laporte, Ind., the so-called village they desecrate. For the benefit of those who know not Laporte, it is a flag station on the L. S. & M. S. R. R. and beautifully located among a group of frog ponds and sand dunes, and inhabited mostly by wops, sand fleas and mosquitoes.

W. C. SECHREST. Upon graduation the Doctor returned to his native clime and engaged in active practice. In 1918, however, he retired and is now engaged in the huckster business and lately formed a syndicate with a dusky neighbor for the wholesale breaking of colts.

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

MAURICE B. SELLERS. Comedian and bass soloist, will appear as the next number of the "Redpath Chautauqua Series" which the students of the Indiana Dental College have been able to procure this season. Dr. Sellers is a former graduate of this institution, therefore much interest is manifested in his coming.

LEO SHOUP. In Leo we look not only for a live wire in the administration that goes to make up the highest class of dentistry, but an element to be counted upon in professional associations.

CYRIL Q. SMYTH. Before Dr. Garrison's wonderful discovery our friend had amassed an immense fortune which he did not know what to do with, but now he has stationed almshouses all over the country for the poor, unfortunate dentists.

R. L. STEARMAN. In predicting for Stearman we are sorry to relate, at the head of a large family we see his fate.

H. V. STEINMETZ. In the future we see Steinmetz at will, doing the Yiddish dance in vaudeville.

JAMES S. STEWART. In the future we will find a first class dentist after the grind.

E. W. STOLTING. I have fought a good fight, I have finished my course, I have kept the faith, henceforth there is laid up for me a diploma of sheepskin, which the dean, the righteous judge, shall give unto me on the 20th day of June, 1930.

O. C. STOLTING. Showed his far-sightedness and belief in preparedness by locating near his kin. This, of course, insures three square meals per day at least. It is understood that he is interested outside of his office hours in stock raising, specializing on ponies, as he has had special training with that particular animal. He has several varieties on hand at all times and for all occasions.

URQUIOLA ORFILIO. A man coming so far to get what he wants is sure a type worth while. An operator of high professional standing, with a clean office, a lucrative practice, and practical modern surgery for Cuba.

ALBERT J. WARBER. We can see Warber, our German friend, making plates for the Kaiser, in the end.

H. A. WARE. Enjoys an extensive practice at Washington, D. C. He has all of the high class practice. Plays golf with the president during his leisure hours.

C. PAUL WEIR. For Dr. Weir, the man of great repose, we prophesy plumbing—now who knows?

F. W. WYATT. "Short and heavy." After removing himself from our midst and practicing some years in a Northern city, he became very prosperous, owning the controlling interest in a first class butcher shop, and running this in conjunction with an ice cream parlor under a former partnership.

Dentists' Alphabet

A is for Arsenic, the dentists' friend;
To kill your nerve is its general trend.

B is for Buckley, whose desensiting paste,
Will stop the pains, without any waste.

C is for cocaine, which puts your nerve to sleep,
And we take it out before you can weep.

D is for Dam; I'm not cussing, I say,
For it surely keeps all the saliva away.

E is for Engine, the patient's dread;
You wiggle and squirm when you hear its tread.

F if for Forceps; oh, what a delight,
If we extract your tooth without a fight.

G is for Gold, a precious metal to fill,
As you well know by the size of the bill.

H is for Hypodermic, the patient's joy;
It stimulates your heart, though it may annoy.

I is for Iodine; it soothes your gums,
After they have been cut, when cleaning time comes.

J is for Joker; I can't think of a thing
That a dentist would use that has its ring.

K is for Krumme; if he were not here,
We would all be seniors again next year.

L is for License, the thing we all covet;
If ever we get one we will think much of it.

M is for Matrix; we use them always,
To build restorations anatomically.

N is for Novocaine, by means of which we prepare,
The most sensitive cavities, and you do not care.

O is for Oxygen, which revives your life,
After Nitrous Oxide has brought on a strife.

P is for Plate, by which we restore,
The use of your teeth when you have no more.

Q is for Quack—"a plate without a roof,"
"Whalebone sets of teeth"—from him stay aloof.

R is for Rubber, with which we make a plate;
It's a good thing we have it at any rate.

S is for Sulphuric, an acid you like,
Especially if there's a leak in the dike.

T is for Tray, in which we take your impression;
The plaster that chokes you, produces vexation.

U is for Uyulae, the cute little thing;
If we didn't have one we'd be on the bling.

W is for Wax, for many things employed;
Without it we dentists would all be annoyed.

X, Y and Z to show nothing tend,
Except that this tale has come to an end.

C. B. LUDWIG.

“As You Find It”

My son, mark the words of high wisdom
 As it exudes from the mouths of thy teachers,
 Permit not temptation and lust
 To step between thee and the art of thy choosing
 Hold high in the mind of your soul
 Thy profession and those that will follow;
 Lay low at the feet of the goddess
 The sacrifice which thou now must offer;
 Hold high in the mind of your friends
 The reward which comes with your diploma
 For thou hast now entered a career
 Which will test you through to the marrow,
 So be ready, and cheerful, and quick
 To respond to the work as it follows
 Crude technic and lectures, and such
 Will be naught in the face of dissecting—
 Brave hearts are those which endure
 The fumes as we rage o'er dead bodies,
 But fear not, for thy heart shall rejoice,
 At the secrets as they soon shall unravel;
 Keep uppermost now in your mind
 KNOWLEDGE—and think not of your poor stomachs,
 Lest with indignation and pain
 Shall be lost the meal of your last partaking
 Knowledge, my son, and sheer wisdom
 Are the source of the world and all in it.
 Feign not at the tasks at your hand.
 For 'tis only the choice of your choosing.
 Now this is a word of good cheer,
 And crude find I words to express it.
 But far be it from wrong
 If you know less in the end than beginning

But now that thou has finished thy task
 Brave fellows, we hope not to lighten
 Your burden—for thou art deserving, and faith
 'Tis just, you get full worth of your money
 So pass these exams and it shall be
 The making of you into Juniors
 As Juniors, thou now shall deserve
 Great respect and honor of the Freshmen
 Now matters have been simplified—
 Thou hast naught to do but to labor,
 Strive hard at the height of your speed,
 Lest technic and counts may overtake you.
 Thou now hast donned the white coats,
 Make sure that to wear them is useful.
 Be tender, respectful and kind,
 For the nerves of thy patients are “awful.”
 'Tis wisdom and skill now, my son,
 Which come only through desperate efforts.
 Press hard to the head of your class,
 And be not lost by the wayside
 Once more to dissect is your lot—
 And now 'tis a part of your nature,
 A hand that is cunning to carve—
 With a heart that has now been well tempered.
 Slash deep, for beneath it all lies
 Thy great aim and exalted ambition.
 Question not the uses of this,
 'Tis your's but to cut and to pay for.
 Questions are the stock of a fool,
 And you are men of a profession,
 So now lay down your knife,
 For at last in great joy you have finished.

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

'Tis the end of a gruesome year,
And means that at last you are Seniors.
As Seniors, we are made of the stuff
That can withstand all kinds of weather.
Our patients are sure of good work;
Our college is sure of their profit,
For we have paid in full
The last great lump of tuition.
Now 'tis a snap; it is soft,
For to get by is the aim of the worthy.
We are revered and honored by all,
Oh, Gee! 'Tis fine as a Senior.
Our tasks are as light as a stone
Compared to what we feel like doing.
'Tis nothing but much over work,
No one would think we were lazy.

We are the great source at stake,
Yea, men from all parts of the nation
Call now upon us to display.
As to them it seems a great pleasure—
And lure us to buy of their goods
At prices exorbitant and painful.
Time has been pictured as fleet,
But to us a snail moves much faster.
At last through the channels, my boys,
Through the channels of great privation,
We have finished. Hurrah! I'm good cheer,
We love thee, honor, and are thankful
To those who have given us help, and taken our money.
You have taught us much in the end.
And now is our chance at the dollar.

VICTOR JORDAN.

A Chemical Rhapsody

Oh, come where the cyanides silently flow,
Where the carbonates droop o'er the oxides below,
Where the rays of Potassium lay white on the hill
And the song of the silicates never is still.
Come! Oh, come, tum-titti-tum,
Peroxide of soda and magnesium.
While alcohol's a liquid at thirty degrees,
And no chemical can act manganese,
While alkalis flourish and acids are free,
My heart shall be content, sweet science to thee,
Yes, to thee, fiddle-de-dee,
Sulphate of iron and HO plus C.

EDW. C. KOHLMANN, '16.

Willie from his mother's mirror
Ate the mercury all off,
Thinking in his childish error
It would cure the whooping cough.
At his funeral, Willie's mother
Dryly said to Mrs. Brown,
'Twas a chilly day for William
When the mercury went down.
Little Willie's friends are weeping,
For his face they see no more.
What he thought was H₂O
Was H₂SO₄

The Corridor of Time

Down the Corridor of Time limps erratic Mrs. Fame;
If you have ever met her, you have found her quite a fickle dame;
She always flirts with youth, but is not so fond of truth—
Coming down the stretch of life she pulls up lame.
Every one has tried to grasp her hand and hold it for a while,
Up her golden ladder all have tried to climb;
But no matter how you've tried, she just smiles and says "Good-bye"
Where you're traveling down the Corridor of Time.

L. M. SARTOR, Vice-President.

H. W. JONES, Treasurer.

RAY SENSABAUGH, Secretary.

Jolly Jabs for Jolly Juniors

ERNEST BAECHER, Vincennes, Ind.

Dippy dope he hands us,
In Abe Martin's classic style.

F. G. BEHMLANDER, Bay City, Mich.

Some say he's German and maybe it's so,
But look at him sidewise and then you'll know.

MERRILL BELT, Macy, Ind.

Around, around the class he goes,
An endless chain of whiskers grows.

MARVIN T. BODKIN, Farmland, Ind.

At dentistry he tries his hand;
He should have stayed in old Farmland.

GUY BRAUCHLA, Warren, Ind.

Stogies, dentistry, chemistry and all;
His biggest line is the fertilizer stall.

HARRY BRYANT, Terre Haute, Ind.

Handsome Harry from "Terrible" Haute,
The Conservatory Matron got his goat.

GEORGE CARBERY, Southport, N. Y.

The radiant Irishman full of mirth,
With a warbless voice of untold worth.

CLATUS COPE, Rising Sun, Ind.

A blonde, a blonde for all of that,
But in speedy technic he's a cat.

JOHN COSLER, Kokomo, Ind.

A gingo teller, a little clown;
Loves a smile, despises a frown.

R. L. DAVIS, Ontario, Canada.

He's alive, by his work you may plainly see,
Though he's buried in Gray's anatomy.

W. E. DEAKYNE, Fortville, Ind.

Sings "Twa, twe, twa," without any words;
'Tis an anesthetic for the warbling birds.

JOHN DEVIN, Patoka, Ind.

As a pugilist he sure has luck,
For one big picture just cost him ten "bucks."

MILLARD E. DILL, Mooresville, Ind.

A high school lad 'twould seem as as such,
He's serious a little and "kids" very much.

ROGER L. DILL, Robinson, Ill.

Roger Bean he's sometimes named,
For volume his voice we'll ever be famed.

JOHN R. DONAGH, Mendota, Ill.

You will find him here and find him there,
And in chile parlors with ladies fair.

ROYOL F. EDDY, Michigan City, Ind.

Grinning royally, giggling ever,
In company with books you find him never.

WALTER C. EICHOFF, Irvington, Ind.

In the Kaiser's cavalry he is head man.
He rides 'em bare back through every exam.

ROY S. ELLSWORTH, Indianapolis, Ind.

An artist of fame he wanted to be,
But gave up his calling for dentistry.

LAWRENCE S. FALL, Greenfield, Ind.

He asks the questions when Paul's not there,
And with Dr. Hurty he is a "bear."

EDWIN T. FOSTER, Fulton, N. Y.

One pure and fresh as the morning dew,
In the ranks with the rest of us now does chew.

THE SIXTEEN IDENT

CARL FRECH, Huntington, Ind.

Coming from "North Western," a very nice gent,
Is finishing his course with the I. D. C. Dents.

GOLE FRIDAY, Fremont, Ind.

At soldering bridges he'll take a crack,
Though his favorite sport is "Ballin' the Jack."

G. R. GUNN, Point Pleasant, W. Va.

Up and out, in and under, he's sure there;
A very quiet fellow, but beware!

W. O. HILL, Evansville, Ind.

The ladies he favors without hesitation,
But his strongest suit is a week-end vacation.

SIDNEY C. HOFFMAN, Dunmore, Pa.

When "Hefty Hoffer" gets heaping hot,
His will is good, but get near him not.

OPOL I. JACKSON, Harrisburg, Ind.

For a remedy Materia Med is a joke.
Just ask "Ope Jack," he's got the dope.

CHESTER JONES, Lapel, Ind.

A little red dome, as busy can be,
With technic and lassies and chemistry.

HOMER W. JONES, Indianapolis, Ind.

Guedel's right hand "Bower,"
Sure you can find him right here every hour.

ALEX KAMM, Indianapolis, Ind.

The hardest worker we ever have known.
Inspects all technic besides doing his own.

FRED W. LEAVELL, Hagerstown, Ind.

In this and that he's up with the bunch,
And he feeds now at the Serv-Us lunch.

JEAN P. LIEB, LaGrange, Ind.

Of his race we're suspicious, but his voice is gold,
And a certain young lady his number does hold.

SMITH LITTLE, Victoria, B. C., Canada.

At hair restorer does he scorn and scoff;
Will soon join the army to glance bullets off.

FRED McNAUGHTON, Battle Creek, Mich.

The same old boy in the same old way;
He's always the same whatever the day.

PAUL MANN, Lynn, Ind.

Anything worth doing at all, is worth doing well;
How much he loves his girl at Lynn
By his actions we can tell.

WILLIAM A. MEYER, Newpoint, Ind.

Hair tonic and lather he swishes around;
The razor he uses has never been ground.

GILL MILLER, Flora, Ill.

With Red Band Scrap in the place of a molar,
He "kids" all day then begins all over.

PAUL G. MILLER, Rensselaer, Ind.

Our basketball manager for the coming year,
An asker of questions, so many, so queer.

W. L. MILSTEAD, Indianapolis, Ind.

A sticker who sticks to the difficult part,
Then conquers it finally with an ever strong heart.

W. J. MOONEY, Ontario, Canada.

For us St. Patrick's comes once a year,
For Bill it's every day, we fear.

E. J. NORMAN, Jasper, Ind.

Ever quiet and ever sober,
'Tis so we think, though we don't follow him all over.

HAROLD C. PERCIVAL, Indianapolis, Ind.

If in two lines we must write his poem,
It can't be did for he's too well known.

LUDWIG PETERSON, Baldwin, Ark.

He might be Irish or he might be Dutch,
From the color of his 'stache our choice isn't such.

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

EARL M. RAMSEY, Camden, O.

A very hard worker, he will ever be,
A farmer he was, but now a Dent for he.

C. O. RICHER, Warsaw, Ind.

Sometimes serious and sometimes gay;
Sometimes works and sometimes plays.

LESTER M. SARTOR, Oaktown, Ind.

Tempu firgit, 'tis ever said,
But Sart, on his bike, is always ahead.

ROY SENSANBAUGHER, New Philadelphia, O.

A big, long name for a little fellow,
Was born to lead and never to follow.

R. G. SHEPARD, Springfield, O.

His routine's exacting, he will never fail
To first use his nail file and then read his mail.

GLENN SHOWERMAN, Paw Paw, Mich.

'This Count, they call him, where ever you go,
We could tell things about him, but you shouldn't know.

BEN W. SMITH, Bloomington, Ind.

Of the Smiths and Smiths in the lists you may see,
You can always find Ben if in the dark were he.

MARK C. SMITH, Muncie, Ind.

Once speedy in technic, like a star did shine;
Now his hair's getting thin from the worry and grind.

LEWIS B. SPEAR, Indianapolis, Ind.

A sensible fellow to know with delight,
And the strength of his character just eclipsed by his pipe.

CLAUDE SPENCER, Logansport, Ind.

Facing he buys to Herriott's pleasure,
Then checks 'em up to make good measure.

JAY SPINK, Corona, S. D.

Nurse maids and technic are his greatest delights,
And Copenhageners snuff 'neath his tongue does bite.

WILBUR SPITLER, Moreland, Ind.

A nice bit 'o fellow, loves "bacty-bugs" too,
Some call him "Rabi," but we leave that to you.

CLEMENT C. SULLIVAN, Pittsburg, Pa.

A very long lad, precise as can be,
First oiler of the gates for St. Peter is he.

M. F. SULLIVAN, Anderson, Ind.

The very best Prixy old "17" could wish,
In the summer storms Cedar Point bottle and dish.

EDGAR WELSH, Brownstown, Ind.

A kidder, a worker, and all around guy;
A six-inch stogie is all he will buy.

N. A. WHALEY, Birdseye, Ind.

A Louisville Dent, he is they say,
But we know him better by "How's Doc Today?"

PAUL E. WILLIAMS, Farmland, Ind.

A jolly good fellow to one and all,
To fail us resides a "Purity Hall."

Junior Class History

IN THE fall of 1914, sixty-five carefree aspirants to the degree of D.D.S. assembled in the never-to-be forgotten freshman room. Of course we were all intent upon making ourselves acquainted with each other, the school and the city. The first and last were well accomplished by all and the record was kept by most of us. But many of the boys had such a time learning the nature of the city that the school was of decidedly secondary importance.

Dr. Lucas announced one day that we were to hold a class election. As a result, Edwin Foster, P. L. Davis and A. E. Long were elected to president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

After election nothing of much importance happened. We had our lectures, technic, etc. Probably one of the greatest thrills we ever had was when Dr. Wheeler pointed the femur bone at us individually and said, "What's that?" Of course most of us wouldn't know after seeing that cruel-looking specimen for osteology. Our carving of teeth was wonderfully inspiring. We had thoughts of home many times and of the dear old storebox where we could carve and receive no criticism whatsoever. Brass plates were quite a source of worry for us. Words were said then that never before entered our innocent minds. Thus have we acquired quite a vocabulary of expressive words. Dissecting was probably the other bugbear. Although interesting, it was so wonderfully sickening at first, many of us took our first (?) chew of the unsanitary weed during those hours of scientific research. But, taking everything into consideration, we had quite a pleasant year and were all ready for our junior certificates. Five of the freshman class dropped out, Alerding and Tagowa being locally employed, Hayes back in Virginia, and Wolfe and Schroeder at Chicago. Word was received not long ago of the death of Andrew Wolfe from paralysis. We feel that the dental profession has lost a valuable prospective member.

Now, in the junior year, we have been getting along more or less as regular dentists. That is, we think we are regulars, but it is quite well understood that by the end of this year we will feel that we knew nothing whatever.

The first day in the operatory was one of great joy (?). "How many canals in a lower first molar?" "In what direction does the transverse ridge run?" Doctor, what is the use of the rubber dam? The cavity gets wet, anyhow. How we did wish we were back in the little town where we at least had a semblance of an idea of plowing that "patch."

The class election was held the first of the year. M. F. Sullivan, M. L. Sartor and Ray Sesenbaugher were elected to the offices of president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

This year we have had several additions to the class; Belt and Shepard, who had been out a year, Frech from Northwestern University, Eddy from Chicago College, and Whaley, Norman and Cosler from Louisville.

Our class has helped materially in athletics, having contributed four men to last year's varsity basketball squad and two this year.

One thing that has been remarkable about this class, the comparative harmony between fraternity men and barbs. This has been more or less true of the present senior class, too.

Now we are well on our way to the junior state board examinations and the much coveted senior certificate. Our class has turned out a great deal of technic and still have made the average of operatory counts fifteen above that of last year. While we make no boastings, we like our class and think it the best ever turned out of I. D. C. Of course that is all judged according to the point of view. One thing our class has missed that is both fortunate and disappointing. The class rushes were stopped last year. But we feel that it will make for better harmony between classes, which is very much desired.

As a bird in the hand catches no moss, so does a seat in the Majestic catch no counts.

BENHAM—Successful dentists must be married men. I hope to be a success (?).

PILMORE—What makes amalgam set?

LARUE—I don't know. What makes a hen set?

SENIOR—I'm beginning to think that the faculty is a necessity.

SHIMER. What is the tooth band?

SELLERS—That must be the musical part of a tooth.

KRUMME—Ven Furnas und I differ, Furnas is wrong.

MRS. KOLIN AND, MISS RISER—Men may come and men may go, but we go on forever (?).

FRESHMAN—I thought an infirmary was a place to keep the infirm.

BAECHER—"Boys, it's all right to be a good mixer, but don't get mixed."

LEUCOCYTE (Lucas-ite)—Pertaining to or belonging to the Lucas family.

Our Castle in the Air.

A dentist bold, from I. D. C.,
 Started on his way a great man to be,
 With nerve that was vital, but putrescent breath
 That drove away patients—the rest you can guess;
 His wail was hard luck, but you can soon see
 The moral of this little tale—Don't have a bad breath.

EDGAR G. LENHOFF.

There was an old man from Torrentum
 Who chewed his false teeth till he bent 'um;
 When asked for the cost
 Of what he had lost
 He said, "It ain't nothing, I rent 'um."

A dentist there was, so benighted,
 He never knew when he was slighted;
 He went to a party
 And ate just as hearty
 As if he'd been really invited.

There was a young man from Leconia
 Whose mother-in-law had pneumonia;
 They hoped for the worst,
 And April the first
 They buried her 'neath a begonia.

The devil got up from his warm little bed,
 He washed his face and combed his head;
 Now I'm asking a question I hadn't oughter,
 Where in H—— did he get the water?

ALBERT J. WARBER.

The Dentist and the Guy

"Will you step into my parlor?"
Said the dentist to the guy;
"It's the swellest dental parlor
That ever you did spy.

"Now have that tooth extracted—
You no longer need refrain;
In my modus operandi
There is not the slightest pain."

So you step across the threshold
Of his cunning little lair,
And he lands you very quickly
In his cushioned dental chair.

Then he props your mouth wide open—
He's a human sort of guy—
And he asks you twenty questions
When he knows you can't reply.

Then a drill that would be famous
On the Panama he takes,
And Vesuvius is an infant
To the earthquake he creates.

After weary hours of torture,
Having hammered, ground and drilled,
Gleefully he then assures you
That the nerve must now be killed.

Oh, the agony you suffered!
Words can scarce describe the pain—
While the dentist blandly tells you
Of his methods, safe and sane.

And he keeps right on tormenting
With his hammer, file and saw
In a manner most distracting
To that molar in your jaw.

Through this pain excruciating,
Staring at you all the while
There's a mural decoration
Asking why you do not smile.

Well, you ask me how I know this?
Where I got this bloomin' hunch?
Let me tell you, gentle reader,
That I had a toothache once.

Modern Abou Ben Adhem

Charley Davis (May his tribe decrease),
 Awoke one night from a deep dream of peace.
 And in one far corner of his little room,
 He beheld a spirit writing in great gloom.
 What the spirit was writing, Charley could not say;
 So he addressed the phantom in the following way,
 "Oh, Spirit, of some dim light,
 Pray tell me of what you write."
 The spirit coughed thrice ere he turned his head,
 And his eyes gleamed bright with a ruddy rose red.
 "In my book I am writing the name
 Of all those who are deserving of fame;
 Whatever the deed, be it great or small,
 I write their names here, one and all."
 Now Charley lay musing for a minute or two,
 Then up spake he and asked question number two.
 "Oh, won't you tell me of those who have fame?
 Perchance I know some of them even by name."
 The spirit smiled his sardonic grin,
 And then made haste to answer him.
 "You may not deem worthy some of the names
 That I have written on the roll of fame,
 But from a dead one's view I think it entirely fit,
 That in my book their names should be writ.
 First there are Yount and Epstein,
 Who have made famous the towns whence they hail.
 Next, Blondie Pow and Hoffa,
 Whose leadership none dead can assail,
 But the list is long, so tell me, before I go,
 Is there a certain one about whom you wish to know?"
 "My name is Davis," hoarsely said Charley,
 "And I come from Logansport town."

Look, Oh! Spirit, I beg you,
 And see if you have it writ down."
 The spirit gasped twice, three times, and yet a fourth,
 And from his economy a forked glance come forth.
 The butt of a half-smoked Camel fell from his hand to the mat,
 And his foil-filled molars gleamed leaden as these words he spat,
 "Horror of all horrors, tell me, 'tis not true!
 Would I, could I, believe such a thing of you?
 If it be true that you come from Logansport town,
 'Tis enough, too much, I can not write you down!"
 Now Charley turned ashen and sobcr,
 And felt quite withered and sore,
 For the words of the spirit just spoken
 He could not choose but to hear.
 "Tell me the specific reason," said Charley with an angry look.
 "Just why my name is barred from the columns in your book?"
 Quoth the spirit as he reached for another cigarette,
 And his eyes burned dimly as a turned-down gas jet,
 "Since you ask I must tell you, but only because you ask,
 And even then my job is a very delicate task.
 On the map of Logan-town are spread black dots in profusion;
 As to what they mean, in your mind, I know there's no confusion.
 Now these dots have ruined your chances
 Of getting your name in my book,
 But take my information kindly
 And do not give me such a black look."
 So saying the spirit left him;
 Left Charley alone in his black mood,
 And he cursed the black dots
 That had dammed his career and ruined his name,
 And kept him from being written
 In the illustrious column of fame.

Smoke and Smokes

The German smokes a pipe of meerschaum,
The Turk a bottle and a hose,
Oh, Sid will smoke a bamboo pipe
And blow the smoke out through his nose.

The South Sea Islander loves his seaweed
And puffs it from a cocoanut,
The Eskimo smokes a hollow bear tooth
And puffs away till he melts his hut.

The farmer's pipe is made of corn cob,
The stem a piece of elder pole;
The bushman fills a gourd with grape leaves
And sucks the smoke out through a hole.

The small boy smokes a piece of paper
Containing cornsilks, raw or ripe;
The Indian smokes a pipe of peace,
The Irishman a piece of pipe.

His royal hobs, King Ed of England,
Smokes a pipe of costly worth;

But let me say in I. D. C.
They smoke anything on this green earth.

J. HAROLD NAUS, '16.

It is too bad, dear juniors,
We can't roast you all;
But our space is so narrow,
Our oven so small.
All surely need roasting
To be real well done,
For you're still fresh and green,
Though you're on the home run.

EDW. C. KOHLMAN.

I don't want to be an angel
And never do a thing
But play upon a darned old harp
And sing, and sing, and sing.

DENTIST—Has the nerve been removed from this tooth?
PATIENT—Yes, a dentist took out the nerve and put in a picket.
DENTIST—Oh, you mean a post.
PATIENT—Well, I knew it had something to do with a fence.

FRESHMAN CLASS

FRESHMAN CLASS OFFICERS

H. S. BANKS, President.

E. E. HOFFA, Vice-President.

CHARLES S. DAVIS, Secretary and Treasurer.

Frosty Forthcomings for Freshmen

ORAL ADAMS, Sharpesville, Ind.

One of our benedicts. Cupid got to him shortly after school started.

ROY ANDREWS, Kingston, Canada.

The Canadian is sure the Germans can't win.

LEX ARNETT, Merom, Ind.

Famous as the original "Technitation."

CHARLES ARNOLD, Greenfield, Ind.

Specializes on anatomy, large words and stogies. Also one of our little songbirds.

MERRIL BAKER, Orleans, Ind.

To err is human, to reform divine.

HARRY S. BANKS, Niagara Falls, N. Y.

Our class president. He is a good "fella."

ALVIN E. BARKES, Helmsburg, Ind.

"Barks" certainly is "Chemiaw's" friend.

FOREST R. BELL, Casey, Ill.

"Casey" is the original "you got his goat" boy.

FRANK W. BOYD, Wellmar, Minn.

Frank is our Mellin's food baby. He says they moved the postoffice into the grocery store when he was at home Christmas.

RUNO C. BRODEEN, Stillwater, Minn.

His home is the only still part about "Brodie."

R. V. BROWN, Livingston, Mont.

Father and official sponsor of the I. O. O. L. Y. D.

HARRY BRUNER, Worthington, Ind.

He specializes on little girls at noon hour.

CLARENCE C. BUYER, Elkhart, Ind.

The big boy from Elkhart is a "regular" white hope.

LESTER CHOATE, Frankfort, Ind.

One of our good looking men from I. U.

ARTHUR E. CHRISTERSON, Marshall, N. D.

"Christie" has developed a world of patients by sitting next to Arnold.

RAYMOND COLLINS, Jefferson, Ia.

Ray is a quiet boy who calmly goes on in his own easy way.

GEORGE CROPP, Logootee, Ind.

George has been known to whistle out of the windows at various people.

MATTHEW S. CUFF, Watertown, N. Y.

Cuff is our speed merchant on technic.

CHARLES S. DAVIS, Logansport, Ind.

"Dutch" majors in girls. Oh! how he loves them all.

FENTON, DAVISON, Marshall, Ill.

The first half of the Davison combination.

ROSS DAVISON, Marshall, Ill.

The other half of the above.

E. W. DERRICH, Yuma, Va.

The best thing that he does is to imitate Dr. Henry.

C. W. DIETRICH, Waveland, Ind.

"Dietrich" has had an awful time in getting to school on time.

MERRILL DOAN, Boswell, Ind.

Doan was one of our enthusiastic supporters at the basketball games.

ED F. DUVALL, Rensselaer, Ind.

Eddie was strong for dissecting.

A. W. EDMAN, St. Paul, Minn.

Then spoke the good King Arthur, and said, "Shoot her in the basket," for Arthur is our basketball star.

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

WILLIS B. EGGLESTON, Detroit, Mich.

"Eggie" prefers to be called "Egglestien."

SYLBERT EILAR, Arcadia, Ind.

This youthful athlete is our prize roughneck.

JOHN A. ELLIOT, Bloomington, Ind.

He is mostly famous for his perfect set of notes.

HARRY EPSTEIN, Minvale, N. J.

"Don't worry, I still love you." This is his favorite expression.

NOBLE FOX, Terre Haute, Ind.

Noble is a firm believer in Dr. Wheeler's integrity.

EDGAR A. FRANTZ, Ijamsville, Ind.

It was rumored that he really enjoyed dissecting.

HUGH J. GALLAGHER, New York City, N. Y.

"Gal" made the "One-Minute" popular.

PERRY GARMAN, Kewanna, Ind.

Perry is a quiet soul.

W. O. GODWIN, Woodstock, Canada.

A real student and a good fellow.

J. BRUCE GORDON, Marion, Ind.

We can't let that youngster in.

CAMERON GRIFFITH, Huntington, Ind.

Griff has a face most lovely, a form divine.

DAN W. GROMLEY, Hillsdale, Pa.

Dan is one of the hard workers of '18 class.

R. L. GEUDEL, Indianapolis, Ind.

"Are you awake yet, Geudel?"

ED L. HAY, Silver Lake, Ind.

Eddie is a regular prosthetic star.

EARL E. HOFFA, Brazil, Ind.

Hoffa, "The little songbird of our class."

FRANK HUBBARD, Monroe, N. J.

Frank has taken it easy all year.

MURRAY IPE, Napanee, Ind.

Ipe has done so many noteworthy things that we know not what to mention.

DON F. IRVIN, Winchester, Ind.

During his short career in I. D. C. he has developed a new technic for repairing plates.

VON L. KENNEDY, North Manchester, Ind.

Kennedy is one of our stars with pencil and brush.

CARL KRETCH, Indianapolis, Ind.

Carl enjoyed February 22 immensely.

EARL McKEE, Zanesville, Ohio.

Earl's wrestling furnishes a great deal of amusement for the class.

ROBERT McKEE, Zanesville, Ohio.

Not so pugilistic as his big brother.

JOHN MARTIN, Peru, Ind.

Johnnie's career varies from a circus to I. D. C.

C. B. MECKEL, Muncie, Ind.

After a year at I. U. Meckel arrived for a year in the big city.

ELMER MILLER, New Harmony, Ind.

Miller is original in his way of soldering crowns together.

CARL MORGENTHALER, Rockport, Ind.

Carl is very particular about the pronunciation of his name. Also some poet.

L. R. NEWBERGER, Marion, Ind.

Leo, our nifty little stenographer, is a big hit with himself.

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

R. J. OVERSTREET, Greencastle, Ind.

Last year he was a co-ed at DePauw.

GEORGE OYLER, Burlington, Ind.

Although his feet are not mates, he is some basketball man.

J. B. PARR, Lebanon, Ind.

If you have anything you want raffled off just hand it to Parr.

CLAUDE B. PIERCE, West Baden, Ind.

Pierce is piling up a big breakage fee with the entire class.

A. D. POW, JR., Brazil, Ind.

Pow's illuminous hair is quite an attraction for all of the fair sex.
He is some lady killer (?).

JOSEPH ELMER PULLEY, Stone Fort, Ill.

Old "Scoliosis," our ladies' man.

SAMUEL J. PURVIANCE, LaGrow, Ind.

Said to be some sport.

HARRY RATHSACK, Greenview, Ill.

One of the admirers of the young ladies at the Indianapolis Conservatory.

LYNN G. REED, Waterloo, Ind.

Lynn takes his big glasses out to Thirtieth and Illinois every Saturday evening. Wonder why?

FRED W. RICHARDS, Marshall, Ill.

Makes frantic efforts to keep ahead in technic.

PAUL RICHARDS, Palastine, Ill.

Paul is Gordon's right-hand bower.

WADE ROGERS, Bloomington, Ind.

Stars in 'em all, especially anatomy.

STARK ORBEN SANDERS, Indianapolis, Ind.

An empty wagon makes the most noise.

RUSSELL SHAFFER, Cedar Rapids, Ia.

One of our musical freshmen starting on the violin.

HARRY SCHIESS, Paterson, N. J.

"Scheiss" is a long way from little New York.

ALPHONSO SHIPMAN, Fainler, Ind.

One of the big quartet.

T. C. SMILEY, Washington, Ind.

Ding is a big brother to the whole class.

STEWART SMITH, Hagerstown, Ind.

Smith has a charming girlish way about him that you can't help like.

JAMES STEWART, Terre Haute, Ind.

The phrase "You're next," still lingers in "Stew's" vocabulary.

W. RAY SUMWALT, Farmland, Ind.

It was rumored that Sumwalt was infatuated with a certain Lena.

HOWARD THOMAS, Milroy, Ind.

Always looks as if he were about to jump.

JESSE V. TOW, Spencer, Ind.

Tow is making some fight to keep up with technic.

RALPH TURNER, Union City, Ind.

Another lover of the "Conservatory Campus."

C. P. WALKER, Roberta, Ga.

He speaks a language all his own and an adept student of osteolog.

LOUIE E. WAMPLER, Gosport, Ind.

When it comes to splitting hairs, Louis has it on the whole class.

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

CAREY WEATHERHOLT, Fobinsport, Ind.

One of Uncle Sam's men.

EMIL L. WELCH, Ewing, Ind.

The guy that put Webster on his feet.

LEE WHERRY, Indianapolis, Ind.

Lee gained his knowledge of machinery by playing with a wheelbarrow.

DOUGLAS WHITE, Indianapolis, Ind.

The ladies' man from Shortridge, who specializes in prosthetic and pills.

EDWARD C. YOUNT, Mulberry, Ind.

Eddie made Mulberry famous.

NEAL LOOMIS, Marion, Ind.

Came to us from Louisville and made some addition to the class.

Freshman's Prayer

Oh, gracious dean, to thee we plead—
 A freshman's trouble you always heed;
 We joke and fuss and try to sing,
 While at our technic our hammers ring.
 Our president—God bless the man!
 He's short of stature, but a good ball fan;
 For he yells "Hey! fellows" so all may hear,
 And in steps Wheeler amidst the freshman's cheer.

Dear faculty members, one and all,
 Please remember this technic, though 'tis small;
 Our prayer is just, altho' not sweet—
 We implore thy blessings while at your feet.
 Blessed Lord and teachers true,
 Our supplications we imply to you;
 We'll soon with empty heads again
 Pray "Save us from all flunks." Amen.

FRESHMAN'S DREAM

DONT YOU SEE
MAY BE A JUNIOR'S DREAM ALSO

First Spasm

I was preparing a cavity, practicing prevention,
When the demonstrator said, "Where's your retention?"
Which left me in a maize of flustration,
But on account of my speed in reclamation
I soon saw a course for my salvation.

Second Spasm

So I prepared the cavity for the much-needed retention,
And of cement I produced a good, firm foundation,
And on that I built up an amalgamation,

But I can't find now a tract of prevention
Though I hunt for the cause o'er the whole d—— nation.

A Real Vacation

I wish I were a little stone
A-sitting on a hill;
I wouldn't do a single thing
But just sit still.
I wouldn't eat, I wouldn't sleep,
I wouldn't even wash,
I'd just sit still a thousand years
And get a rest, by gosh!

Preparedness

To the I. D. C.

Old I. D. C., we're all for you,
We'll stick through thick and thin,
Although we dread to solder plates,
We'll stick with you and win.
We've been here one year, well, what's that?
We have to go two more;
We'll stick through that, and then we'll wish
That we were here for four.
We're all for you, old I. D. C.
We'll boost you to the sky;
Our praise for you in after years,
You know, will be but high.
And as our ending I will give
Three cheers for old I. D. C.,
Three cheers for our loyal Dean
And all the faculty.

Studying Together

"Two heads," we said, "are better than one,"
"We'll study together, the work will be fun."
We opened our books, he mentioned a man;
I started to argue and the trouble began.
An hour went by. "Let's study," we said.
"We must get this lesson, we can't go to bed."
For exactly five minutes we studied our best;
I mentioned the war—please imagine the rest.
At ten-forty-five we were both tired out,
But none of us knew what the work was about.
Together we studied; together we fared
To class and made answer, "We are not prepared."
In sunshine and rain, in all sorts of weather,
It's so much fun to study together."

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

An antiseptic lotion and a prophylactic brush
Saw an ancient rubber denture approaching with a rush,
And they gazed upon this creature with loathing in their eyes,
For it wasn't disinfected and it wasn't sterilized.

They could see that it was infected and a seat for all disease,
So they steamed it with vapor of "Umpty-skeen" degrees;
In sulphureted hydrogen they gave it a new coat
And scrubbed it in dioxygen with carbolated soap.

Then they donned dissecting jackets and took it piece from piece
And killed each little microbe that had hid behind the teeth,
And they swaged a base from platinum and took it by the hand
And elected it a member of the fumigated band.

And when they had the teeth set up and fastened in their place
They couldn't find a microbe of any kind or race
So they all bathed in Iodoform, and finished with a rush
The rejuvenated denture, the lotion and the brush.

Fratres in Facultate

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

Xi Psi Phi

THE Xi Psi Phi Fraternity was organized in April, 1889, the first subordinate chapter being installed in the University of Michigan. It has since grown until, at the present writing, there are thirty-three subordinate chapters in the various dental schools throughout the United States and Canada.

Among these is our own Theta Chapter, which has the marked distinction of being the first chapter of any fraternity to be organized in the Indiana Dental College. It was chartered in April, 1894, and it has been active ever since.

Theta Chapter, Xi Psi Phi, has ever sought to propagate the noble spirit that prompted the founding of the Xi Psi Phi Fraternity, and, as a result, it numbers amongst its formerly active and its honorary membership not a few of the most distinguished men in the dental profession, both locally and abroad.

The present active membership of Theta Chapter consists of thirty-seven men, who, also, guided and sustained by that same fraternal spirit, are, to put it modestly, hoping to become at last a credit to the dental profession.

The P. G. C. and G. E. Hunt Society

EVERY student who has attended the Indiana Dental College since 1896 knows the purposes and accomplishments of the P. G. C. Hunt Society. This society, founded by the class of 1899, was named in honor of that eminent dentist, Dr. P. G. C. Hunt, and of his worthy and eminent son, Dr. George Edwin Hunt, whose name we have now associated with his father's in the society. We give the following brief biography of these men to whom our college and the profession of dentistry owe so much.

About the year 1812 a young surveyor and his wife moved from North Carolina, where they had been married two years before, to Champaign County, Ohio, near Urbana. Here on a farm P. G. C. Hunt, the youngest of a family of six, was born June 16, 1827. Six years later his father died of smallpox and the mother removed with her children to West Liberty, near Knightstown, Henry County, Indiana. Young Phineas George worked on his uncle's farm at West Liberty during the summer and attended school in Wayne County, near Richmond, Indiana, during the winter. When he was seventeen years of age, David Picket Hunt, an elder brother, who had studied dentistry with Dr. Harding at Lexington, Ky., located in Indianapolis, being the second dentist to select that village for residence. This was in 1846. Young Hunt became a student in the office of his brother and when two years later the brother died, P. G. C. Hunt, barely of age, found the duties and responsibilities of a full practice thrust upon his shoulders.

In October, 1884, Dr. P. G. C. Hunt married Hanna Mary Phipps. His practice of dentistry grew apace and he was early recognized as a leader in his profession. In these early days he fashioned many of his instruments. The blacksmith shop in which he forged and finished his instruments stood on the Circle, now Monument Place. In September, 1858, he took an active part in the organization of the State Dental Association and a year later he is credited with devising the method of "attaching porcelain to a metallic base with rubber or celluloid (Richardson's mechanical dentistry"). In the same year he attended a preliminary meeting to consider the organization of a National Dental Association, and was present at the first session of the American Dental Association held at Washington, D. C. He was an active member of this association until his death, holding the president's chair in 1872. He originated the small articulator for crown and bridge work, as well as many other useful operating instruments. In 1861 he was elected president of the Indiana State Dental Association, holding that office until 1864, in which year, on April 29, at Washington and Oriental streets, our own beloved preceptor, the late Dr. George Edwin Hunt, was born. In 1869 the Indiana Medical College conferred the honorary degree of Doctor of Medicine upon P. G. C. Hunt. In 1870 the Ohio College of Dental Surgery similarly honored him with the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery.

The first law to regulate the practice of dentistry was passed during the winter of 1878-1879, and provided for a board of five examiners to be elected by the State Dental Association. On the last Tuesday in June, 1879, the first meeting of the board occurred and was duly organized with the election of Dr. P. G. C. Hunt as president, which position he held by re-election continuously until

1895, a period of sixteen years. Dr. P. G. C. Hunt was actively instrumental in establishing the Indiana Dental College in 1878, and was placed at the head of the faculty and also at the head of the board of trustees, which positions he filled until his resignation one year later. He was again induced to assume the presidency in 1895, and was filling this office at the time of his death.

Dr. P. G. C. Hunt was beloved by all who knew him. He was ever zealous to promote knowledge and the welfare of his profession and freely imparted his valuable knowledge and skill to all seekers. Throughout his life he was a frequent contributor to dental journals and was the author of a number of valuable ideas and handy clinics for use by dentists. Dr. P. G. C. Hunt was one of the best known men of the dental profession. Heely, Watt, McKelops, Palmer, Atkinson, Cushing and Taft were among his friends of co-workers. He died April 24, 1896, of dilatation of the heart; loved, honored and mourned by all who knew him.

The late Dr. George Edwin Hunt was a worthy son and successor to his father, with whom he was associated in the practice of dentistry for many years. He received his grammar school education and the first two years of his high school work in Indianapolis. Then followed a two-year course at DePauw and one year at the University of Michigan in the study of civil engineering. In 1886, after four years of practical construction work, he entered the Indiana Dental College. He then received his second degree from the Indiana Medical School. He was a member of the National Dental Association of Dental Faculties since 1895, and secretary since 1905; vice-president of fourth International Dental Congress, which met at St. Louis in 1904; post-president of the Institute of Dental Pedagogics since 1896. He had given his entire time to our college and to the writing for dental publications. He was a Mason, as was his father before him; a member of the Delta Tau Delta College Fraternity and of the Delta Sigma Delta Dental Fraternity. He was also active in civic affairs, serving as secretary of the Indianapolis Commercial Club in 1901-1903, as secretary of Indiana State Board of Commerce for two years, and secretary of Indiana University Board of Trustees. He helped to establish the Technical Institute, and public bathhouses in Indianapolis. He was also a member of the Citizens' League in 1902.

George Edwin Hunt, M. D., D. D. S., our beloved dean, friend, guider and helper of every student who sought or needed his help, was taken ill at midnight June, 1914, with acute gastritis. At 2 o'clock his wife attended him and at 6 o'clock on the morning of July 11, on entering his room found him dead. In the death of this man Indiana Dental College, her student body and faculty, as well as the entire dental profession, suffered an irretrievable loss. With the exception of his illustrious father, our school owes more to his ability and industry than to any other one being. Broad-minded, public-spirited and sympathetic, and filled with a dynamic energy, he was ever a monument of strength and example. No expression of sorrow or regret can adequately voice our sense of loss, but we who knew him and loved him can ever hold before us his noble character and great ability as a standard toward which we may strive. And our reward, if we succeed to the honor and advancement of our profession, shall be the knowledge that he would have been gratified and proud of us; that had he lived he would have grasped us by the hand, smiled, and said, "Well done."

ATHLETICS

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

ATHLETIC OFFICERS, 1915-1916

"FATHER OF ATHLETICS"

DR. FURNAS, President,
Indianapolis, Ind.

When first organized the athletic association consisted of one member, the Faculty Manager, Dr. Furnas. From "this unpretentious beginning" the association has grown to a membership including all of the student body and many of the alumni.

While the Association was quite young, there developed bills to pay. Dr. Furnas drew a deep breath and his next month's pay check from the college, gave up the idea of having a new suit and paid. When he thinks of his gone "forty" or "fifty" let him know that it went to produce a thrill for every milling mark on the edge of every dollar; yells by the million, and big broad healthful smiles in like manner.

To show its gratitude and appreciation of the services of Dr. Furnas, the Athletic Association presented him with a handsome watch at the mass meeting of April 10th.

Cliff made a great manager and handled the finances in the best way possible. Everyone is well pleased with his management. In his efforts to show hospitality to each visiting team, he gave a dance in their honor. The team will miss their peppery little manager.

CLIFTON E. DONNELL, Manager,
Indianapolis, Ind.

Owing to past experience Miss Davis filled her position exceptionally well. Her efforts in boosting the team helped athletics to take a prominent place in the college.

HEZLEP W. CLARK, Coach,
Indianapolis, Ind.

MISS MARY DAVIS, Sec.-Treas.,
Indianapolis, Ind.

To the efforts of Heze Clark, the team owes much of its success. In 1913 Heze started with raw material and with untiring efforts has placed athletics on a firm basis in the college.

Heze has been well known in Indiana and the Middle West for seventeen years. He is an all-round athlete, having won his monogram in football, basketball, and track at Indiana and Shortridge high school. Clark played football at Indiana University in 1904, 1905 and 1906, and was named as the all-western champion half back by many critics. He has been an athletic director for about ten years, and always puts out a strong team.

Miller is our manager for next year. He has been assisting Cliff this year and has shown unusual ability in handling the situation. We expect Paul to give the college and Indianapolis an unusually good schedule of games.

PAUL MILLER, Ass't. Manager,
Rensselaer, Ind.

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

J. R. LEVERON,
Freelandville, Ind.

"Jim" or "Lev" won the honor of being placed on the third all-state college basketball team. Led the team in scoring field goals during each of the three years which he played on the team. One of the best forwards in the state.

A. E. LONG,
Kokomo, Ind.

Long, strong for long shots, our very speedy guard was a favorite with the fans. His dribbling and passing was seldom broken up. A true sportsman. In his two years on the team, he never lost his smile. He played forward as well as guard.

W. E. DEAKYNE,
Fortville, Ind.

Deak, our next year's captain, is a good goal shot and a very fast man on the floor. Outside of being a fast forward, he is a clever guard. Deak was strong in passing and in making long shots.

TIOSSEAU HECK,
Captain,
Fairmount, Ind.

Cap won many a game by his speed in breaking up the team play of the opponents. One look at Cap put pep in the whole team. As a guard and fighter he was unexcelled. Played three years on the team.

A. W. EDMAN
St. Paul, Minn.

"E" or "Ed" made an excellent record as a first year man. He was only out-played by two centers during the entire season. Ed is an all around athlete, having won distinction in baseball and swimming as well as in basketball.

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

W. C. MILLER,
Peru, Ind.

"Con" the pinch hitter of the team, could be depended upon to fill any vacancy when necessary. Strong as a back guard. A good sport, and for three years loved by all the fans.

NOBLE R. FOX,
Terre Haute, Ind.

Fox is a fast guard and will no doubt take his place in the lineup next year. He won his monogram the first year. Fox is an all around athlete.

Oyler, big strong and a hard worker, bid fair for the center pivot all year. He played well under the goal and his passing was good. He will make an excellent man with little seasoning.

GEORGE L. OYLER,
Burlington, Ind.

Sykes was fast and his passing and guard work was exceptional for a first year man. He always kept himself in good condition and was a valuable man for the squad. Much is expected of Sykes next year.

SYLVIAN MOUSER,
Indianapolis, Ind.

Skeet the fastest man on the dental squad, could dribble the ball past the fastest opponents. Made up for lack of size in speed. Played in many an important game during his three years on the squad.

JOHN SYLBERT EILER,
Arcadia, Ind.

BASKET BALL TEAM, 1915-1916

I THE SIXTEEN IDENT D

Basket Ball 1915-1916

HE third and most successful season of basket ball has just been finished by our team. The team this year has played one of the hardest schedules of any in the state. Manager C. E. Donnell has given the Dental fans some basket ball that the college can justly be proud of. The team had great confidence in the management and also in the ability of Heze Clark to develop one of the strongest teams in the state.

A glance at the work of the Dental team during the season just closed shows they have won twelve of the eighteen games played by them. Our team was twice defeated by Butler, once by Indiana University, once by Wabash College, once by Culver Military Academy, and once by Central Normal of Danville. We recorded some victories over fast opponents. We defeated Earlham, Central Normal of Danville, Indiana State Normal, and Rose Polytechnic. We won two games from St. Joseph College of Rensselaer. Three games were played with Butler College for the city championship of college teams. Butler captured the first by a score of 24 to 14. We won the second by a score of 32 to 21. Butler won the third game by a score of 27 to 23. In the three games Butler scored 72 points, while our team scored 69 points, Butler having the best of us by a margin of only 3 points.

During the season our team, in the eighteen games, piled up a total of 621 points as compared with our opponents' 445 points.

Two scheduled games were cancelled during the season. The first one was with Indiana State Normal of Terre Haute and another with the Indiana Law School team.

Leveron, forward, was the big point getter for our team, scoring 251 points, of which 81 points were made on foul goals. Deakyne, our other forward scored 81 field goals during the season, which is only four less than Leveron. Deakyne covered the floor and really had less chance to shoot field goals than his teammate. Edman, a freshman, proved the "find" of the season. He scored 45 field goals and outplayed every center he met this year, with the exception of Stonebreaker of Wabash and Nash of Indiana University. Long played a fast game at guard, scoring 36 field goals, while Captain Heck's ability was shown not only by consistent work during the entire season, but by his sensational playing in the Rose Poly game. Miller and Eilar were the best of the emergency men on the squad, while Fox, Oyler and Mouser also showed class. Fifteen men were used in the varsity games during the season just closed.

The work of the players is best shown by the following figures:

Player	Number of Games Played In.	Field Goals	Foul Goals.	Technical Fouls.	Personal Fouls.	Total Points.

DR. HURTY (asking questions in chemistry)—"When rain falls does it ever rise again?"

FRANTZ—"Yes, sir."

DR. HURTY—"When?"

FRANTZ—"In dew-time."

IRVIN—"Did you see the grades that were posted? I got a hundred."

MECKEL—"What in?"

IRVIN—"Fifty in chemistry and fifty in anatomy."

FOX—"Did you ever notice the beautiful hills around our town of Terre Haute?"

BANKS—"I have never been there, but I would judge that there were many hills around there from the amount of bluffs that have come from there."

DR. FURNAS—"What are the constituents of plaster of Paris?"

DUVALL—"Two parts plaster and one part Paris."

DR. LUCAS (on examination)—"Don't you know what the nasal cavity means?"

IPE—"No, sir."

DR. LUCAS—"Correct."

APPENDICITIS: A modern pain costing about $200 more than the old-fashioned stomach-ache.

A young lady who often spoke her thoughts was passing through Block's garter department when she muttered, "Thirty million pair a year; I do not see where they all go to."

"I wish I did," mused Gromley, '18, the floorwalker.

GUEDEL—"Say, doctor, I don't think I should have zero on that quiz."

DR. W.—"I don't either, but that is the lowest I'm allowed to give."

EILAR—"How much did it cost to have your shoes shined?"

PIERCE—"Ten cents."

EILER—"Gee! they'd paint a barn for a quarter, wouldn't they?"

Giving as an excuse for cutting a lecture that he had to administer an anesthetic for an operation, Dr. Henry was asked by an inquisitive freshman what the operation was for.

"For three hundred dollars," replied Dr. Henry.

"Yes, I know," said the I. F.; "I mean what did the man have?"

"I don't quite remember, but Dr. Wheeler said he had three hundred dollars."

Views in the Freshman Technic Room

One day as I gazed upon the freshman class many strange sights met my eyes. The first object of interest was Adams, who seemed very sad, but they explained that he had lately married.

Next I saw a Martin, perched in a window, watching for hawks—or perhaps chickens.

Hard by was a red-headed bob White feeding on peanuts.

When I glanced Overstreet I noticed a New York "Bank" building which appeared to be a perfect anatomical structure.

As I stood admiring the Bank's dominating air, my attention was drawn to the middle of the room by the disagreeable noise of an old Pulley. There, to my utmost surprise, I saw a smart Elliott trying to stack a large Crop of Hay with a Derrick and Pulley. He was drawing the Hay up with a Brown Choate. I noticed the Hay was heavy and caused the Choate to become Weary. The Pulley made so much noise that finally the Elliott told the small town Smith to Oilar.

Pretty soon a Baker and Miller came walking by, all dressed up like rich folks that didn't have to work, but of course they do.

Suddenly a great change came and all was dark and silent. At last the silence was broken by "Bud," the Stewart, as he tolled the village Bell.

Also in the distance was heard the Barkes of a Noble Fox.

Then all was quiet as Dead.

To Whom It May Concern

FROM time immemorial it has been customary for practically every educational institution of any consequence in every civilized nation (and Canada) to send forth among its alma mater a publication narrating certain little incidents (wise and otherwise) in and around the school in question.

Considering that we are a collection of promising "young buds" in the Indiana Dental College who are grasping for their share of knowledge in the science and art of dentistry, we are at least part human, and by our own endeavors and the assistance of others we hope by May, '17, to become fully naturalized.

We realize, to our sorrow, that we are one large family of "apple knockers," and, far behind the times as we are, we are cognizant of the fact that we must keep abreast with the times and follow the examples as laid down by our predecessors. Therefore it has come time for us to "ring out the glad tidings" and co-operate in sending out our reminiscences of our good old school days. Please bear in mind that this is not a light undertaking, but by adhering to the old adage that "persistence wins" we hope to accomplish a given end, namely, to issue an annual that will bring pleasure to ourselves and honor to the I. D. C.

We have the material and know it "can be did." By the time we graduate (if we ever do) we anticipate an annual that will be "seldom equaled, never excelled."

We are conscious of the fact that we have a world of knowledge to "get next to," but in time we hope to overcome all obstacles and be brought from darkness to light many times. Our advice to our immediate successors would be "Love thy neighbor as thyself, but let his instruments alone." There's a reason.

Semester exams, to us at least, are looked upon as ancient history. The majority made good in anatomy, which was quite an agreeable surprise. While it's true we didn't know any too much about passive immunity, Professor Bishop made chemistry so elementary that P. Miller was able to "clinch," and to the professor much credit is due.

It's no particular disgrace if one of our boys tried to adjust a rubber dam with a separator. We profit by our mistakes—at any rate, Carberry knows better today.

In being advanced to the junior class we necessarily completed a few subjects, but were laden with an equal amount. While anatomy is included in the junior curriculum, we feel duly thankful that histology is not.

To this date we have lost but one man, Gersham Grimm. We can not fathom the reason, but suppose that Dr. Langdon reaped his harvest in bacteriology. Now, of course, it's quite simple to examine a specimen and differentiate between staphlo-coccus, Pyogenes albus and mono-coccus Tetragenous, but can you picture Kamm making his own technic without the aid of Hoffman? Speaking of speedy technic, what's happened to Mark?

Can you draw on your imagination long enough to witness DeaKyne curing a case of pyorrhea with a pyretic? That's simplicity personified, but think of Friday trying to devitalize an artificial tooth. He says "impossible" has been removed from his vocabulary.

History says Williams once purchased some "masticating" tobacco, but who can vouch for this?

We have devoted some little space to our class as a whole, but due mention must be made of two fellow classmen, "Pat" Mooney, the humorist, and Wayne "Little Oswald" Hill, the comedian. Pat is a table finisher of wide repute and ex-salesman, and taking dentistry as a "side line." Hill, hailing from Evansville, formerly a bookkeeper in a bird store, but now a "regular" in the dental profession.

We have students from all parts of the United States and representatives of nearly all walks of life. To complete the annual we must say something for Guy Brauchla, formerly a "knight of the bag." Before starting in school he gave his samples to the Governor of Texas. However, he still has an inexhaustible supply for ready use.

Thus ends our strange, eventful history, and in conclusion add that we hope our book is commensurate with your expectations. We've made our mistakes and a lot of them, but we're good fellows and you'll miss us when we're gone.

GILL MILLER, '17.

THE INDIANA DENTAL COLLEGE

A Good Institution In a Good City

To the Young Men and Women:

Have you made up your mind what your vocation in life will be? Have you considered the profession of dentistry?

Would it not be well for you to consider this profession before coming to a final decision?

The Indiana Dental College has been teaching dentistry for thirty-nine years. Our graduates are successfully and honorably practicing in all states of the Union as well as in nearly every civilized country on the globe.

Why not write the secretary for a catalogue which tells all about the work and the school. It may be that this is just what you are looking for.

The College gives a three-year course leading to the degree D. D. S. Commencing with the class matriculating in 1917 the course will be extended to four academic years, leading to the same degree.

POLICY

We believe that the policy which will best protect the interests of the owners of Columbia Equipment, is the policy that will best maintain the reputation of this company and its product.

Columbia Product has served the dental profession for thirty odd years in practically every part of the world with the result that the name COLUMBIA on dental equipment is generally accepted as being a guarantee of sterling quality, satisfaction and continued good service.

Ideal Columbia Chairs, Columbia Electric Engines, Lathes, Air Compressors and Distributing Panels are as modern in design and construction and as practical in operation as more than a quarter of a century of experience, mechanical skill and a model factory can make them. They are moderate in price and arrangements can be made for their purchase on the extended or time payment plan.

Catalogs describing Columbia Product in an interesting and a thorough manner can be obtained of your dental supply depot or the same will be sent direct upon receipt of request and your dealer's name.

The New Idea in Office Equipment

The S. S. White Equipment Combinations represent the highest attainments in the development of modern practical dental office equipment.

They are made in many types, offering an unusual range of choice, at varying prices which are always reasonable.

The one illustrated, the S. S. W. White Equipment Combination "C" is similar to the type installed in the Thomas W. Evans Institute. It embodies in a most complete and convenient manner the Diamond Chair, the Spiral Flush Spittoon in pedestal form, the S. S. White Electric Engine, an Aseptic Bracket Table, a movable Electric Light, connections for Gas and Compressed Air and an extra electrical connection for general use.

The Equipment Combinations are beautifully constructed, refined in appearance and practical in every way; they economize office space to the last degree and afford the greatest convenience for operator and patient.

We have prepared a booklet in colors, illustrating and fully describing the complete line of S.S. White Equipment Combinations which can be had free, on request to your dealer or any of our houses.

One Way to Economize

Save space by using one of these cabinets.

Both about 12 inches deep, which is especially desirable for a narrow office, but deep enough for any office.

Notice the shallow medicine closet on the No. 97—just deep enough so no bottle can be placed in front of any other.

One feature of the No. 94 is the white glass trays that hold all instruments.

See the Verde Antique marble base on both models.

Many more interesting features fully explained in our catalog, which will be sent on request.

Bear in mind that our goods can be combined on a contract covering full equipment and sold you on easy monthly payments.

Harvard Dental Chairs

Gold Medals awarded by International Exposition Juries, composed of men selected for their scientific qualification, go only to articles of the highest merit.

HARVARD CHAIRS are the only ones now being made that have received any award at any of the great Expositions. While others still advertise Awards by Expositions at Chicago 1893, Paris 1900 and St. Louis 1904, as a matter of fact their chairs there shown are not now being made, while HARVARD CHAIRS receiving awards at the above named Expositions shows principles of construction which are being adopted by others as fast as patented rights expire, and now the new PEERLESS HARVARD CHAIR is the only one to receive a Gold Medal (the highest award) at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition, San Francisco, 1915, the greatest distinction ever bestowed upon any Dental Chair.

The PEERLESS HARVARD has further been honored as has no other chair by a succession of orders from the Purchasing Departments, charged with the responsibility of buying the best for use in the U. S. War, Navy and Interior Departments, where nothing but the best goes. The British Government, not less exacting than the American, has also placed an order for HARVARD CHAIRS for use in its War Department.

The new PEERLESS HARVARD is further distinguished by being the only chair that sells through the best Dental Depots upon its own merits without the aid of an overwhelming sales force by its manufacturers to create the demand, as they call it.

The expense thus saved put into goods makes the PEERLESS HARVARD the best Chair on earth, with merits so appealing to the discriminating buyer as to create its own demand. Write for catalog to

There are Two Reasons why Stafford Engravings are used in this Annual and why they should be used in Yours

The First, of course, is quality. Through years of specialization, our organization has become unusually expert in half-tones, color plates, zinc etchings, and designs for college and school publications. We have the very best shop equipment and every facility for prompt production of quality work.

The famous Levy Acid Blast process gives our half-tones a cleaner, deeper, sharper etching than the tub method most commonly used, and makes it easier for your printer to give you a first-class job.

Let Stafford make your commencement invitations, fraternity stationery, visiting cards, and any other copper plate engraving or steel die embossing. We have a large department devoted exclusively to this class of work, and can give you both quality and service. Samples with prices on request.

The Second is Stafford Co-operation. For the benefit of our customers in their dealing with us, we have prepared a valuable handbook entitled "Engraving for College and School Publications," containing 164 pages and over 300 illustrations, and giving complete information in regard to planning your publication, the preparation of copy, and ordering of engravings. This book simplifies ordering, prevents costly mistakes, and means high quality engravings at lowest cost. We do not sell it—but we loan a copy to the staff of each publication for which we make the engravings.
